Easily Extend Enterprise IT Capabilities to Remote Users

From military agencies and first responders who need advanced capabilities on the battlefield or in emergency situations, to businesses who want to connect a geographically dispersed workforce, rapidly deployable solutions are now a must-have.

Red River extends enterprise IT capabilities to remote users with highly customized, deployable data center, network, unified communications, wireless and security solutions configured to your exact specifications that can be transported to and easily managed from anywhere in the world.

HIGH PERFORMANCE, SMALL FOOTPRINT

Red River understands the demands and constraints of the modern battlefield, emergency situations, environmental disasters and more. We are experts at engineering secure deployable solutions that deliver the highest performance within the smallest footprint.

Size: Red River delivers advanced IT capabilities within small yet sturdy customizable cases and containers to empower ease of movement and maximum flexibility.

Weight: All Red River deployable solutions are lightweight and compact, yet tough enough to withstand shock and vibration extremes as well as the intense heat and cold of extremely harsh environments.

Power: From uninterruptible power sources (UPS) with backup functionality to inverters without batteries, Red River deployable solutions are engineered to meet power and performance demands that many established platforms can't address.

INTEGRATED SOLUTIONS AND PROVEN EXPERTISE

Red River works with you to understand your challenges and mission-critical goals, then designs custom deployable solutions using tightly integrated technology from an array of original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) to deliver the same level or even better functionality in the field as on site.

Leading government agencies and business enterprises rely on Red River deployable solutions to help them:

Provide Enterprise Services to Remote Users: Deliver enterprise-level voice, video, networking, data services and more to remote users from a ruggedized mobile kit or container.

Optimize Connectivity in Emergencies and Harsh Environments: Red River deployable solutions enable communications and connectivity even when infrastructure is damaged or non-existent.

Connect Warfighters with Critical Data in Real Time: Leverage 4GLTE, cellular, satellite, wireless and broadband technology to empower tactical communications and strategic decision making on the battlefield with direct access to real-time data.

Strengthen Safety and Security: Provide physical security with pop-up VoIP cameras, video surveillance, information management and analytics to eliminate security vulnerabilities at events and off-site locations.
